Indian Society of Engineering Geology

Established in the year 1965, the Indian Society of Engineering Geology (the Indian National Group of International Association of Engineering Geology and Environment) aims at promoting the study of Engineering Geology, Geotechniques and Geohazards.

All these years, the Society has effectively served as a formidable bridge between the Geologists and Engineers, provided a vibrant platform for discussion and debate on a host of geotechnical issues including state of the art technologies involved and it has projected the nation's achievements in the field of Geotechniques in international arena.

The Society brings out its bi-annual Journal of Engineering Geology and the quarterly ISEG News regularly. ISEG has also published many prestigious volumes like "Indian Monuments through the Ages" and "Geotechnical Features of Major Dams in India".

The Society provides fora for technical deliberations on relevant topics. Accordingly, it has organized a number of Symposia, Seminars and Workshops etc.

Chief Patron

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Indian Society of Engineering Geology and Geological Survey of India, we take this opportunity to invite all Geologists, Engineering Geologists, Engineers and academia to join us and participate in the ensuing "National Seminar on Engineering Geology, Geotechniques and Geohazards - A quest for excellence".

The ISEG was formally inaugurated on 15th October 1965 and is going to complete 50 Years of its existence by next year. It is proposed to celebrate the Golden Jubilee of the Society by organising an "International Conference on Engineering Geology in New Millennium" at New Delhi on 27-29 October 2015. The Society looks forward to a global participation in the Conference. In this regard, an exclusive brainstorming session is also planned within this Seminar.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Abstracts, limited to 500 words, followed by Full Papers are invited on the themes enumerated. Relevant drawings and photographs may also be added, if needed. All Abstracts and Full Papers must be submitted in a CD or online through email to: india.seg@gmail.com with a copy to editor@joegindia.com & iseg2015@gmail.com. Full Papers will be published in the subsequent issue of the ISEG's Journal of Engineering Geology.

PROCEEDINGS

The deliberation in the National Seminar would be in the form of invited lectures and oral presentations.

The deliberations in this Seminar will lead to recommendations that will be useful in addressing geotechnical problems in various water resources and hydroelectric projects, preparation of a dependable DPR and effective management of Geohazards.

THEMES

1. Rock mass characterisation.
2. Fundamental Research in Engineering Geology.
3. Geotechnical studies of water resource development and hydroelectric projects.
4. Geotechnical studies of underground caverns, tunnels and support measures.
5. Geotechnical testing and evaluation of soil/rock mass.
6. Sedimentation in reservoirs and catchment area treatment
7. Geotechnical studies of landslide hazards.
8. Geotechnical studies of Seismic hazards.

REGISTRATION FEE

Rs. 2,000/- for ISEG members

Rs. 3,000/- for Non-ISEG members
